

Help Someone who has Migraines Today!

When migraine pain hits, it can range from minor discomfort to immobilizing agony, and can last from minutes to days. The pain most likely occurs on only one side of the head along with nausea and vomiting.

The cause of migraines has been a mystery. New research reveals sufferers have abnormal nerve firing in the brain and spinal cord which dovetails with prior findings that headaches can be caused by problems in the spine, specifically in the neck.

Chiropractic adjustments will remove nerve pressure and spinal distortions. This addresses the underlying causes of the headaches and promotes the body's natural ability to heal itself.
